John Dunmire Takes Flight!

Volunteer John Dunmire, a World War II Veteran, had the privilege to go on an Honors Flight to Washington, DC, to visit the World War II memorial at the National Mall. The trip was a chartered direct flight to Baltimore. About 80 WWII Veterans and their guardians attended. They received the royal treatment arriving at the airport with a water arc welcome reserved for royalty and V.I.P.s, and greeted inside the airport by an enthusiastic crowd of hundreds, clapping, saluting and hand-shaking on the way to the chartered buses to take them to the Hilton Hotel where the rooms and meals were complimentary.

The next day they were taken to the National Mall where they visited the WWII and all the other memorials plus a visit to the Arlington National Cemetery for the 'changing of the guard' ritual. They attended a reception at the Naval Museum and the U.S. Navy shipyard. The cheers were not left in DC - they were welcomed home in San Diego to another enthusiastic crowd.

We salute you John and all of our veterans!

If you have an amazing story to share, let us know.
